KNOX NOW LEADS GROUP OF 8 THAT WANT NO LEAGUE

Reed, Borah, Johnson, Brandegee, Fall, Moses and Poindexter Try to Get Other Converts.

LODGE EMBARRASSED BY THEIR TACTICS

How the Question of Politics Enters Situation Which Now Has Resulted in Three Factions.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1919.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Out in the open at last after nearly two months of jockeying for position are the three separate factions in the United States Senate who differ on what the foreign policy of this country should be in the future.

President Wilson himself has driven into two camps those who favor putting reservations in the ratifying resolution and those who would make such reservations as a separate and distinct declaration of American policy, somewhat similar to the Monroe Doctrine, not binding possibly upon other powers but binding upon the United States.

A third party, hitherto confined only to Senators Borah and Johnson, Republicans, and Senator Reed, Democrat, has now arisen and organized. They are eight in number. They constitute the radical and irreconcilable opposition to the peace treaty and league of nations and would not be disheartened if the whole document were defeated and it were necessary to negotiate a new peace with Germany.

Senator Poindexter, of Pennsylvania, has taken the leadership of this group and with him are Senators Moses of New Hampshire, Brandegee of Connecticut, Poindexter of Washington, Fall of New Mexico and Borah, Johnson and Reed. It is this group which should be watched, though some Republicans

IRISH TO CONSIDER REED'S ADVICE TO STICK TO PARTY

Senator's Letter to John P. Leahy to Be Placed Before Friends of Irish Freedom Tonight.

LEAGUE NOT LIKELY TO BE 1920 ISSUE
Senator Says One of Several Dispositions May Be Made of the Covenant; Criticizes State Committee.

A letter written by United States Senator Reed to John P. Leahy, urging that voters of Irish extraction should not leave the Democratic party on the league of nations issue, will be considered tonight at a meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom, to be held in the Knights of Columbus building, 349 Olive street.

Leahy is chairman of a committee of the Irish organization which appeared before the Democratic State Committee Aug. 11, and protested against the action of the committee in endorsing the league of nations covenant. The protest carried an implied threat of withdrawal from the Democratic party. It has been expected that some formal action of a political sort would be taken by the Friends of Irish Freedom at tonight's meeting.

Senator Reed, in his letter to Leahy, reminds him that this is an off year in politics, and that before next year's campaign, the league of nations would have to be a party issue. Senator Reed also repeats his assertion that the State Committee exceeded its authority in making an expression on the league of nations.

His Outline of Situation. Senator Reed, in his outline of the present situation, states three dispositions which may be made of the league of nations covenant. He says the covenant may be accepted without amendments, or may be "accepted with amendments and duly ratified, or that it may be rejected, and a peace treaty, pure and simple, negotiated and ratified."

President Wilson, in his talk with the Senate Committee on foreign relations Tuesday, said that the peace treaty should be amended, other governments would have to accept the amendments, and that the assent of the German Assembly would have to be obtained. "Among the rest," he said, "I must frankly say," the President added, "that I could only with the greatest reluctance approach that Assembly for permission to read the treaty as we understand it." The President was previously quoted as saying that if negotiations of this sort with the German government were necessary, "your action will be gratified."

The considerations just mentioned would lead one to make the suggestions which follow:

"You correctly state the facts when you say that a substantial part of the strength of the Democratic party comes from citizens of Irish birth or Irish antecedents. I believe that all candid men who have regard for the old party must admit that a general exodus from it of the members just referred to would be a party disaster from which it would not soon recover. I hope this disaster will be averted."

Observations Submitted. "I beg to submit for your calm consideration a few observations."

"1. With all due respect to the Democratic State Central Committee, it is neither by law nor precedent the spokesman of the party upon matters of party politics or principles."

"The great body of the Democracy speaks through the party conventions duly assembled. It does not speak by executive committees, whose sole business is to carry out the will of the party as expressed by party platforms duly adopted. Indeed, the committee in carrying out this will is limited in the sphere of its operation, which is solely the business of getting out the party vote and managing the battles of the campaign at the polls. These are the boundaries of its authority. Acting within them it proceeds faithfully; acting outside these boundaries it is without authority and its resolutions amount to no more than regulations adopted by an equal number of Democrats anywhere assembled."

"When it assumes to speak without authority and undertakes to usurp the powers the people have reserved for themselves, it merely attempts to constitute itself a boss of the party. Efforts of that kind always result in detriment to the party."

"The national convention will be probably next July or August. The league of nations is then in issue, the party will for the first

Wilson Told of Heroism of East St. Louis Boy

Pardoned for Sleeping on Outpost Duty, He Fell in Aisne Offensive.

When President Wilson was informed a few days ago by Secretary of War Baker that Forest D. Sebastian, the young East St. Louis soldier whom the President pardoned for sleeping on duty, later met a heroic death in action, he was receiving news which Post-Dispatch readers got last September. The exchange of notes between the President and Secretary Baker was made public at the White House yesterday.

Sebastian, as was told by the Post-Dispatch at the time, was 20 years old, and the son of Frank Sebastian, a cigarmaker at Edgemont, East St. Louis. He enlisted early in 1917, and was soon sent to France. With Private Jeff Cook of Latic, Ok., he was sentenced to death by a court-martial for sleeping at his post. President Wilson, after reviewing the cases, pardoned both men.

Story Told in Notes. What happened later to Sebastian was told in the Post-Dispatch, and is repeated in the following note:

Mr. Dear Mr. President: You will recall that early in 1918 four death sentences were presented to you from France, two for disobedience of orders you remitted to terms of imprisonment and two young boys, Sebastian and Cook, who were convicted of sleeping on outpost duty, you fully pardoned.

It will interest you to know that upon restoration to duty both boys were killed. Sebastian died in battle in the Aisne offensive in July, 1918. Cook was wounded in that battle and died in the same offensive, when he again fought gallantly and was the second time wounded. He has been now restored to health through medical attention and has been honorably discharged from the service. Respectfully yours,

NEWTON D. BAKER.

The President's reply follows: My Dear Baker: Thank you for your thoughtful letter telling me about the records made by Sebastian and Cook, the two youngsters who time have an opportunity to make an authoritative declaration.

"2. State conventions in Missouri are held as you know. Under the state constitution the Democratic convention will not convene until after the next primary, which will be held about a year from this time. That convention will be composed of the persons chosen for candidates in positions by the people at the State-wide primary. The two conventions I have spoken of can alone express the party's will."

Probable League Disposition. "Long prior to the meeting of either of these conventions it is very likely that the league of nations controversy will have been ended. It is extremely probable that that document will have been disposed of in one of three ways:

1. The covenant will have been accepted without amendments and duly ratified, or

2. It will have been accepted with amendments and duly ratified, or

3. It will have been rejected and a peace treaty, pure and simple, negotiated and ratified."

"The question is not now a party question. It may never be a party question. The action of the 29 members of the Democratic State Committee can no more make a party question of it than the action of 29 men and women meeting in any part of the State can make a party question of it."

"The whole atmosphere may be cleared, the whole issue may be in the background before the next campaign."

"However dear this question may therefore be to your hearts, and it cannot be closer to you than it is to me, it would seem that an organized movement to leave the party would be a great mistake, and most earnestly hoped that no such action will be taken."

"The Democratic party has a great history. It has made mistakes in the past. It will make them in the future. But fundamentally it has been the party of the people. Speaking broadly, the battles of the Democratic army have been for the preservation of the rights of man. If it has made mistakes, it has made them in the straight path, or made mistakes, its wanderings have been temporary. This is true because the great mass of the party is made up of the plain, common people of the land."

Confidence in Party. "I feel, therefore, a supreme confidence in the fact that our party will live through the difficulties and uncertainties of the present hour, and will keep its feet upon solid Democratic ground. And that it will do no act which will force men who love their country to leave the party."

"Why should the action of 29 men, who happen to be temporary State Committee members, drive from the party thousands of solid rock-ribbed Democrats, every one of whom has the same right in the party as those gentlemen who happen to be temporary committee members?"

"I do not say this to reflect on the State Committee. I criticize it for only one thing, and that is, taking action which tends to disrupt our party. Let me summarize: "Let all good Democrats who are opposed to the league of nations and who want to preserve our rights and liberties continue the battle. Public sentiment in my opinion, is undoubtedly swinging our way. The document which was first regarded as a sacred one is now a subject for open debate. People are beginning to know that instead of being were pardoned for sleeping on outpost duty. It is very delightful to know that they redeemed themselves so thoroughly, and it was very thoughtful of you to give me the pleasure of learning about it. Cordially and faithfully yours,

WOODROW WILSON.

Father Thanked President. Sebastian was killed July 20, the third day of the Chateau-Thierry counter attack, only two months and a half after his life had been saved by the presidential pardon. His mother who lived at Eldorado, Ill., became ill from the shock of his trial, and died in June.

Sebastian, following the pardoning of his son, had sent his thanks to the President. When he learned of his son's death, he registered for the draft and waived exemption. However, he never was drafted.

Forest Sebastian was a member of G Company, Sixteenth Infantry, a regular army regiment. The section in which he committed the offense of sleeping on outpost duty was a quiet one.

a mere agreement, which will put the world at peace, that after all it is only an offensive and defensive alliance by which we are bound to fight the battles and other campaigns and send our boys to die in the cause of foreign countries.

"Let the fight over the league of nations proceed to the end; and in the meantime, let all Democrats sit steady in the best."

"I hope this will not be misapprehended or regarded as presumptuous. Please read it in the light of genuine friendship for yourself, for your associates, for the party and for our country."

ROARING GUNS AND CHEERS WELCOME PRINCE AT QUEBEC

Reception Is Enthusiastic as That of the Prince of Wales at Any Other City.

By the Associated Press. QUEBEC, Aug. 22.—"Welcomed by the strains of 'God Save the King' and the roar of a royal salute from guns in the old citadel, the Prince of Wales landed here last night shortly before 6 o'clock for his first visit to the ancient capital of French Canada. He was greeted on the quay by the Governor-General, Quebec, the Duke of Devonshire, Cardinal Beaudry, head of the Catholic church in this country; Mayor LaVigne, and an imposing array of military, civil and ecclesiastical dignitaries, and was cheered by a crowd of thousands."

At 6:15 o'clock the Prince and the Duke of Devonshire motored together to Upper town, through Mountain Hill and St. Louis street. The Prince was cheered by large crowds along the route, while church bells tolled their welcome. Quebec was decked with flags, bunting and oriflammes, and in several places on the road leading to the citadel arches of welcome had been erected. The reception was in every respect as enthusiastic as that accorded to him at any other point visited. The most conservative newspapers were cordial in their editorial treatment of the Prince's arrival as were the more liberal.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Henry Ruhlender of New York, chairman of the board of directors and president of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, has resigned from both positions, it was announced today. The board elected E. N. Brown, chairman of the board of the Pere Marquette, to fill both vacancies. For many years Brown was president of the National Railways of Mexico.

NEGRO WHO CURED ALL "SORROWS" CONVICTED

Prescribed "John the Conqueror" to Get Rid of Ailment, a Fat Blond.

Alfred Brown, a negro with an incipient vandylke who has been holding himself forth at 1223 Chestnut street as "Dr. A. Brown, Medical and Surgeon, Over C. B. C." was sentenced to the workhouse for a year by Judge Miller in the Court of Criminal Correction today on his plea of guilty to practicing medicine without a license.

Brown practiced and heard the testimony of Mrs. Alice Buckley, police woman, who consulted "Dr. Brown" on Aug. 8 and then had him arrested. Mrs. Buckley said that when she called the "doctor" was unkempt and was beginning the growth of his vandylke. She asked him what he could cure and he said "cures all sicknesses and diseases and all troubles and sorrows."

"John, the Conqueror." Mrs. Buckley said something of that sort was all he had, and he prescribed "John the Conqueror" to get rid of his ailment, a fat blond woman named Buckley from your house, but I've got something here that will remove her. I call it John the Conqueror."

He drew from his coat pocket a small pouch, Mrs. Buckley testified, and said: "I prescribe that you take John the Conqueror and buy him on the east end of your house, where the wind and light won't touch him, and pour nine drops of this medicine on him, and make nine wishes. Then in the morning take a shoestring and cut off the ends and make a slipknot and tie John the Conqueror around your waist and wear him there."

Shrivelled Up and Blow Away. The medicine to be dropped on John the Conqueror was a dark fluid in a two-ounce bottle.

"What will happen then?" Mrs. Buckley asked.

"That woman will just shrivel up and blow away and your husband will come back and grow crazy over you."

He added that the dark fluid was also good for malaria.

Mrs. Buckley asked him how much she owed him and expressed misgivings as to his ability to compensate him adequately for such a valuable prescription.

Regular Fee $25. "Well, now," said Brown, "I'll tell you my regular fee is $25, but if you will pay me $10 you can pay me the rest in 60 days."

Mrs. Buckley did not have so much with her but she thought she could borrow it from her "sister-in-law," who had come with her. She borrowed the dollar from Miss Elizabeth Hoch, another police woman, and paid Brown. Then they called a policeman and had Brown arrested.

John the Conqueror was taken apart by the City Chemist and was found to consist of camellia tablets.

BLACK CAT BRINGS BAD LUCK TO MAN WITH RIFLE AND BOY

Bullet Fired at Sable Feline Hits Youngster and Shooter Is Killed.

Edward W. Ricketts, 24 years old, an electrician employed at 2439 North Grand avenue, told policemen that he had never felt superstitious, but that after his "sister-in-law," who had come with her, she borrowed the dollar from Miss Elizabeth Hoch, another police woman, and paid Brown. Then they called a policeman and had Brown arrested.

Charles Hughes, 13 years old, of 2438 Fall avenue, was seated in the kitchen of his home yesterday afternoon when a rifle bullet struck him in the right leg. His father, Edward Hughes, investigated, and the arrest of Ricketts on a charge of discharging firearms resulted.

Ricketts told policemen that he had been bothered much of late by a stray black cat which spent most of its time in the yard behind his employer's plant and had a habit of retreating into the yard of workmen. Yesterday he brought a rifle from home, he said, and determined to get rid of the cat. He said that he just missed the cat and was very sorry when he learned he had hit the boy.

MORGENTHAU'S PROCLAMATION

Dropped From Airplanes by Polish Aviators, Addressed to Jews. Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright.) MINSK, Aug. 22.—Following is the translation from the Yiddish of Henry Morgenthau's proclamation which was dropped from airplanes by Polish aviators before the entry of Polish troops into Minsk.

To the Jewish population of Minsk—I take the liberty of asking you to observe perfect quiet during the entry of the Polish troops, and in no way to give the Bolshevik forces. Particularly I urge the young not to meet the Polish army with any acts of violence. Outrages and pogroms can be averted only if the Jews give the Poles any reason for starting them. The Polish Government and the commanders of the Polish army wish to avert any outrage, as do our friends in America and England. Only by friendly, mutual co-operation on both sides can pogrom be avoided."

It was signed "Henry Morgenthau, member of the American Mission to Poland, former American Minister to Turkey, Vienna, July 29."

BURENSTEIN WILL BEQUEATHES $8000 TO JEWISH CHARITIES

Retired Liquor Dealer Made Legacies of $5000 to St. Louis Institution; Wife Receives Remainder.

Special legacies to Jewish charities, most of which are in St. Louis, were made in the will of Benjamin Burenstein, 5941 Washington boulevard, retired wholesale liquor dealer, which was filed in the Probate Court yesterday.

The largest bequest was one of $2500 to the Jewish Consumptives' Relief Society of Denver. The Beth Moshe Z'Klein Society of St. Louis receives $1000 for the support of the Jewish Orthodox Old Home at East Grand and Balduvian avenues. Other legacies included: $1000 for the School of the Congregation of Bnai Ansonia at Vernon and Academy.

$1000 to the Jewish Home for Chronic Invalids, $500 for the school for the Muses Montefiore Ladies Charitable Society, $500 to the Jewish Hospital of St. Louis and $500 to the Jewish Orphan's Home of Cleveland, O.

The remainder of the estate is left to Mrs. Pauline Burenstein, the widow, and is to be held in trust by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. The same is to be paid to the widow and the child is given in the will to revoke any of the legacies of the will on cause deemed sufficient by her.

After Mrs. Burenstein's death, the will provides, the remainder of the money from the estate shall be used for the construction of a wing to some Jewish hospital as a memorial to the couple. Should there be no such hospital, the money is to be used for the property shall be divided between such charities as shall be selected by a committee of three rabbis.

PAYMENT OF $30,000 FOR TRAINMEN IS APPROVED

Government Agreed to Give Sum to Avert Strike, Receiver Tells Court.

The payment of $30,000 by the United States Railroad Administration to L. S. Cash, receiver for the Kansas City & Northwestern Railway Co., a branch of the Missouri Pacific system, to stop a strike of trainmen on the road, was sustained and approved today by Federal Judge William C. Hook.

In his application for permission to accept the cash, Cash explained to the court that in 1918, when the railroads were under Government control, the United States Railroad Administration entered into an agreement with the employees of the Kansas City & Northwestern Railway whereby the wages of the employees were to be increased.

The amount of the increase, up to the present time, Cash explained, has been $60,000, which amount the Government, with the return of the road to its owners, had failed to pay.

Recently, he said, the Government when the men went on strike because of the nonpayment of their increase, offered to pay Cash $20,000, and the balance of the $60,000, Cash, as receiver, asked for permission to accept the money.

MISSOURI RETAILERS PROTEST

Association Objects to "Unwarranted Accusations of Profiteering."

By the Associated Press. ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—Protesting against alleged unwarranted attacks on retail dealers of the country was telegraphed to Attorney-General Palmer last night by the Missouri Retail Merchants' Association in convention. The protest as adopted by the convention declares the Attorney-General's investigation of retailers as based on too few instances and without investigation. Offer of the co-operation of the association in conducting inquiries is offered and reference is made to an investigation by Attorney-General McAllister of Missouri, who found the retail grocers faultless. The protest closes: "Get true facts first before you make charges."

Officers elected include John C. Westfall of St. Louis, secretary.

Strike Ends With Pay Increase. Porter Wiegand, superintendent of the Standard Shimming Co., Broadway and Chambers street, said this morning that the strike of 150 sheet metal workers, which has been on for eight days at that plant, had been settled. An increase of 10 per cent in pay was granted and all have returned to work. The men failed in their demand for a closed shop. Wiegand said that this was the first strike the company had had for 40 years.

LAUGHS IN COURT, LANDS IN JAIL

Belleville Man Will Have Five Days to Think of It.

Jess Pierce of Belleville is out of luck. He has five days in jail this morning that the strike of 150 sheet metal workers, which has been on for eight days at that plant, had been settled. An increase of 10 per cent in pay was granted and all have returned to work. The men failed in their demand for a closed shop. Wiegand said that this was the first strike the company had had for 40 years.

When Miss Hoffman was fined $10 by Justice Laufer for disturbing the peace of Mrs. Sarah Finley, Pierce laughed out loud. He was immediately fined $5 in jail. Miss Hoffman was fined under the State law and is entitled to an allowance of $5 for every day that she serves in jail. Pierce was fined under a city ordinance and gets only $1 a day.

MADE BY SCOTT & BOWNE MAKERS OF SCOTT'S EMULSION

10TH WARD FOOD SALE OPEN AGAIN TOMORROW

Improvement Association Was Unable to Get Army Supplies for Today.

The second day's sale of surplus army food, under the auspices of the Tenth Ward Improvement Association at 3908 South Broadway, is scheduled to open at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The organization was unable to get any supplies from the Arsenal for a sale today.

Getting the army food is a slow process, the association has found, but there is a big stock to draw on. This is indicated by the announcement, made today through the Association Press, that the supplies to be sold by the Government are two pounds of meat and one and one-fourth pounds of canned vegetables for every person in the United States.

Besides canned tomatoes, which were the only offering at the first day's sale yesterday, the association has put on sale tomorrow other foodstuffs, such as corn, beans and peas at prices substantially lower than those of retail stores.

The 50 cases of tomatoes, 1200 cases, on sale yesterday were sold out within two hours after the opening, with the cash price being 3 cents a can, so that the whole consignment brought $108. The cans contained 19 ounces, and a neighboring grocery store, at the same time, was selling cans of the same brand of tomatoes, containing only 10 ounces, at 9 cents.

Mrs. L. L. Renfrow, head of the Tenth Ward Women's Organization, which conducted wartime drives, said today that her staff of volunteer workers would be on duty every day of the sale. The other saleswomen are Mrs. C. M. Milford, Mrs. J. Kibutz, Mrs. H. Kibutz, Mrs. O. E. Leffler, Mrs. Arthur Stoehr, Mrs. O. E. Backhuser, Mrs. H. Critchlow, Mrs. C. E. Elann, Mrs. H. H. Pipkin, Mrs. G. H. Stutter, Mrs. Ira Butler and Mrs. G. W. Walzow.

The West Walnut Park Improvement Association will meet tonight to decide on the method for handling the orders of members. These orders, thus far, have been for case lots.

First District Association Asks for Permit to Sell Foods.

George Stock, secretary of the First District Improvement Association, today requested Mayor Kiel to issue credentials to the association to sell army foodstuffs. He said a meeting of the association was held last night at Woodland Hall, 5079 Gravois avenue, and that residents of that vicinity contributed $27 with which to buy food and resell to members and others in that part of the city.

The association, Stock said, would open a store at Taft and Gravois avenues and would begin sales Monday morning. It would be open to furnish a city truck to haul the goods and was referred to City Comptroller Nolte for this accommodation.

Shoe Retailers Deny Profiteering.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 22.—Officers and directors of the National Shoe Retailers' Association in special session here denied there was any organized profiteering among the retail dealers of the United States. ST. LOUIS MAN RETURNS WITH BRIDE HE MET IN FRANCE

Corp. Douglas M. Little Brings Back Paris Girl Who Acted as His Guide.

Corp. Douglas M. Little of B Battery, 128 (St. Louis) Field Artillery, who remained in France as a member of the Mounted Police, returned last night to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Schoenholtz, 3780 Blum street, accompanied by his wife, whom he married in Paris May 8, last.

The bride was Miss Marie Germaine, and the couple were introduced by her brother, a noncommissioned officer in the French army, who died a few months later of Spanish influenza.

After arriving in France, Corp. Little was sent to a military training school at Rennes. On his first holiday he went to Rennes, the nearest large city, bent in seeing the points of interest. He met a French officer and young woman, and inquired of the officer where he could find some person who would accompany him as a guide. "My sister, here, will accompany you," the officer said, and the couple were introduced. At the time that Corp. Little was attending the school he spent his holiday at Rennes, and when he returned to the scene of battle, the couple kept up a correspondence.

When the Thirty-fifth Division was prepared to return to the states, Corp. Little had not received the desired answer to his proposal of marriage, and he remained in France as a member of the Mounted Police, being attached to the Provost Marshal General's Department, with headquarters in Paris. Miss Germaine's home was in Paris, but at the time she was introduced to Little she was in Rennes for the double purpose of visiting her brother and to get away from Paris while the city was being shelled.

Mrs. Mary Weiss of 3316 California avenue, State guardian of the Woodmen Circle, a fraternal organization, with an insurance feature, today denied an untrue and unauthorized information published in St. Louis newspapers Thursday that she had called a meeting for Sept. 2 at Cinderella Hall to protest against an increase in the order's insurance rates.

Mrs. Weiss said she knew nothing of such a meeting and did not understand why her name was used in connection with it.

CLERKS TRY ROBBERY TO INCREASE WAGES

Railroad Employees Tell Police-men They Don't Earn Enough to Supply Needs.

Raymond J. Hartz, 19 years old, of 3934 North Florissant avenue, a clerk for the Terminal Railroad Association at $126 a month, and Joseph W. Green, 19, a clerk for the Wabash railway at $130 a month, found their earnings so insufficient for their needs that they decided to turn highwaymen, according to confessions which they made to the police today.

They were arrested at 11:15 o'clock last night after they had been bombarded with soda-water glasses and ice cream dishes by Mrs. Emma Forbes in her confectionery store at 3028 North Grand avenue.

A third youth, who they said was with them and whose name they gave, has not been arrested. An automobile said to belong to his father was seized by the police near the store.

Green, who says he acted as lookout, was in the machine. Hartz told the police the three agreed to start out as hold-up men, and they drove past Mrs. Forbes' store four times before they found her alone there. They ordered nut sundaes, he said, and after eating them one of the youths went behind a partition, but was ordered out by Mrs. Forbes. They started to draw revolvers, he said, but Mrs. Forbes opened with a barrage of glasses and plates, and called for help. They ran out.

Two policemen ran up. One captured Green, who had run to the automobile. The other chased Hartz. On leaving between Grand avenue and Spring avenue, on Sullivan avenue the policemen found two revolvers which Hartz said he and his companion threw away.

Several houses were robbed by burglars yesterday in the absence of the families. The following reported losses to police: Mrs. Marie Alt, 3723 Windsor place, jewelry worth $500; Mrs. Clara Bronckamp, 1418 South Twelfth street, clothing and jewelry, $250; Frank A. Harris, 1249 Semple avenue, jewelry, $300; Edwin Carter, 2847 Connecticut street, jewelry, $235; William H. Miller, Jr., 1417 North Union avenue, clothing, $100; James Dempsey, 2318 South Jefferson avenue, clothing and trinkets, $100; and Mrs. Elizabeth T. Parker, 4905 Lindell boulevard, talking machine and 100 records, $100.

ST. LOUIS DANCER WEDS CALIFORNIA REALTY MAN

Lucille Cavanagh, Who Sang in Choir Here, Will Quit Stage.

Miss Lucille Cavanagh, St. Louis dancer and vaudeville headliner, is now on a honeymoon trip along the Atlantic coast, according to a dispatch from New York, which states that she was married on Friday of last week, at St. Patrick's Cathedral in that city, to Walter H. Leinert of Oakland, Cal. Leinert is described as a wealthy real estate operator.

It is said that Miss Cavanagh met Leinert while dancing three years ago at a theater in Oakland. The couple will reside in Oakland, the announcement says, and the bride will retire from the stage.

PERKINS SAYS U. R. MUST PASS INCREASED EXPENSE TO PUBLIC

If Higher Fare Is Granted Company Will Sell Tokens for Less Than Cash Rate.

Col. Perkins, manager for the receiver of the United Railways Co., at a luncheon of the Rotary Club at Hotel Statler yesterday, after telling his audience that the "case of the United Railways has been so thoroughly tried in the newspapers that there is nothing left to tell," added: "I was asked the other day how the company intends to solve the problem of increased wages for carmen and the high cost of our Keokuk power contract, and I replied that we would have to pass the buck to the public."

Col. Perkins then referred to the fact that the State Public Service Commission would soon be called upon to assess a fair valuation of the company's property and to grant permission to increase the fares. If an increase is granted, he said, the company will sell tokens at a rate materially lower than the cash fare.

He said that a firm of Chicago electrical railway engineers had been retained to make a thorough investigation of the power contracts and that a representative of the firm would begin the work next Monday.

A Matter of Interest to the Retail Merchant

Our Change of Policy

Every retail merchant knows that the selling expense is an important factor in the general expense of a manufacturer. The burden of these expenses are, and must be paid for by the merchant, as it is figured in the cost of operation.

We have adapted the policy of selling the trade direct through our catalog only, thus eliminating a tremendous selling expense. By so doing, we are in a position to give to the trade better value, and in addition, a decidedly liberal discount.

For a quarter of a century we have pursued the old method successfully, and have grown and thrived until we are one of the foremost manufacturing and wholesale Hat and Cap firms in the United States. Always alert, however, to improve conditions in our industry, we now offer advantages which are incomparable.

EAST SIDE CARMEN TO VOTE ON ORDER TO WORK

Will Hold Secret Referendum on Whether They Will Obey
President's Instructions.

Striking carmen of the East St.
Louis & Suburban will take a secret referendum ballot today or tomorrow to decide whether they will obey instructions received this morning from W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, telling them to return to work at once.
This is the eighth day of the strike,
during which not a car has been operated on the city lines of East St.
Louis, Alton or Belleville or on the interurban lines radiating from East St. Louis to a dozen neighboring towns.

President O'Leary, and Grant of the local unions received the telegrams by way of Frank P. O'Shea, vice president of the association, who is here, and O'Shea remained in conference with them throughout the morning. It was intended to read the instructions at a meeting of the carmen in the afternoon.

When the wage question arose in June, the men, as is known, agreed to leave it to the War Labor Board.
A copy of a decision, purporting to be that of the board, awarding an increase of only 12 per cent, was received last week, and the men struck.
They say the copy of the award was signed only by a secretary, and that the names of Basil Manly and William Howard Taft were written on with typewriter. There are 12 members of the board, they say, and they therefore take the position that they never have received any official award from the War Labor Board.

Company officials have taken the position that the men must return to work before any proposal is made to them, an attitude which is supported by J. N. Fining and N. C.
McLean, two of the four members of the special strike committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The men say that they have gone more than half way, and it is the company's turn to make a proposal.

The men are receiving 41 to 47 cents an hour, and are demanding 65 to 67 cents.

Telegram to Mahon.
A telegram signed by Fining urging Mahon to order the men back to work, was sent yesterday to Mahon. It follows:

"The Chamber of Commerce, through its special committee, made the sincerest efforts to prevent the street railway strike in this district, and, after it began, to end it. Inasmuch as the conductors and motormen were dissatisfied with the War Labor Board's award, and we recognized that they had a material interest in the adjustment, we went to the extent of urging the men to remain at work or resume work, and tendered our best offices to see that they, as well as the company and the public, got justice in a case before the Illinois Utilities Commission for an increase in wages. The employees declared full confidence in the Chamber of Commerce, and we were and are resolved to justify this confidence, as we have no selfish interest in the matter.

"We feel that the employees, irritated over their dissatisfaction, have not yet realized the value of our offer or the seriousness of their predicament. If they remain out indefinitely, and let the public suffer, the time must come when we would have to recede from our position. As a result, public opinion would quickly turn against the men. The consequence would be that cars probably would not be run for many weeks, and the employees would lose not only the wages which they should get during this time, but they would lose all support and feel constrained to accept any terms. As we told the employees, no course could injure their organization so much as that which they are taking.

"The suggestion is made to you that you quickly submit the situation to the men along these lines and instruct them to return to work and give faithful public service.
They look to you and Mr. O'Shea for directions in their situation, and doubtless will follow reasonable counsel. We will continue our good offices, and when this proposition is taken before the commission we will see that the company, the employees and the public receive fair treatment."

Hadn't Seen Telegram.
A. T. Spivey, a member of the Chamber of Commerce committee, said today that he did not see the telegram which Fining sent. He added:

"I want to disclaim any knowledge of the telegram; I wasn't in the city when it was sent. The men say the decision of the War Labor Board is not bona fide. If that is true, they have not broken any agreement, and I do not feel we should denounce them as contract breakers until we know whether the charge is true.

After having yesterday received a telegram from Mahon stating that the men evidently did not understand the attitude of the Chamber of Commerce, and suggesting that it be explained to them. Fining today sent another message, supplementing the one sent yesterday to Mahon. It follows:

"Answering your telegram further,
Chamber of Commerce special committee always has maintained men should have remained at work. We told them we concluded they violated agreement when they stopped running cars, and their duty was to stay on job, no matter how much they disliked War Labor Board's findings, and negotiate for their demands.
Street car service is public necessity and neither company nor men should disregard public rights and interests.
If men will return to work we stand ready to have negotiations reopened with company, and will see that conferences are not prolonged. In all probability men and company, under O'Shea's guidance and our co-operation, can reach understanding. In any event, wage and fare cases must go to Utilities Commission, and we are prepared to use our best offices to secure quick, complete and fair hearing and to protect employees, company and public. Throughout matter we have given full publicity to all our decisions, so that our stand could not be misunderstood."

Fining said today, in answer to questions, that he wrote the tele-

"Won its favor
through its flavor"

EAT just one of Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes and you'll discover why so many hundreds of thousands of people will have no other.

First you get the flavor—the distinctive, inimitable Kellogg's flavor, with a lurking sweetness and a genuine goodness that tell of quality. Then you get the taste—a rich, real taste that gladdens the appetite and begins to satisfy hunger.

Then you notice the texture of the flake—it's a food; it has the body that proves it has been properly and carefully prepared.

AFTER you have eaten just this one flake,
you find yourself with a pleasant longing for more; your nerves of taste are telling you that you have just eaten something that was not only good for you, but which you honestly enjoyed.

You will convince yourself that Kellogg's is a complete food, without cream and sugar.
That is the reason why it is so very good with cream and a little sugar, why it is such a favorite with fresh or canned berries and fruits.
The secret of all this is the Kellogg method.

AND a part of the credit is shared by the Kellogg wax-tite package, which brings you the flakes with their oven-freshness unchanged, so that you can almost detect the tempting aroma drifting from our oven doors.

You may as well have the choicest. Ask your grocer for Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes, with

Every Woman Wants a Clear, Smooth Complexion

A Skin With the Tint of Youth—Free From Pimples, Freckles or Other Blemishes.

Happy is the woman with a beautiful skin. There is no joy like that which comes from knowing that you look your best. When you look in the mirror, the first thing you do is to look at your face. First impressions are lasting. If you have a smooth, clear skin, free from blemishes and pimples, you need never fear the impression you make on all you meet. For a woman with a pretty complexion always appears charming. Some women are endowed by nature with a clear, smooth skin, others, not so fortunate, can acquire it by the use of the popular Black and White Beauty Treatment, which consists of Ointment and Soap. Those who suffer the embarrassment of a dark, sallow or mottled complexion, pimples, tan, sunburn, freckles or other skin blemishes, just cleanse the skin with warm water and Black and White Soap, at bedtime apply Black and White Ointment according to directions given in each package. The next morning, wash the skin with Black and White Soap. Repeat the treatment for a few nights or until the desired results have been secured. It's safe, simple and as delightful to use as other cosmetics. Both Black and White Ointment and Soap can be bought from any good drug store at 25c a package, or the manufacturers will send it to you postpaid upon receipt of the price. Free samples and literature can be had by writing Black and White, Inc., 115, Memphis, Tenn.

ABOUT 6000 BELLEVILLE MINERS RESUME WORK

Approximately 3000 "Insurgent" Strikers Remain Out in Belleville Coal District.

About two-thirds of the 9000 coal miners in the Belleville district, embracing St. Clair County and a large part of Madison County, are at work today, according to James Mason of Belleville, district chairman. The others are still out on account of disputes growing out of the recent general strike.

The hang-over strike is against the assessment of fines against the men by the operators for the days they failed to work during the general strike. A meeting yesterday afternoon at the Belleville Airdome was attended by about 150 miners. They voted to remain out and to try to get others to join them, until they hear from the insurgents' convention at Springfield on the fines question.

The position taken at the meeting was that the operators have no right to fine the men because the agreement under which the thing is done terminated with the dissolution of the United States Fuel Administration. State and national officials of the miners' union have ruled that the agreement is still in effect.

The men who are still out demand two concessions before returning to work. One is the remission of pending fines and the other is that there be no discrimination against the strikers. A collection was taken to send Harry Burgadine to Springfield to present to the insurgents' convention the case of Edward Luetticher, one of the strike leaders, who was ordered off the premises at the Shiloh Mine when he reported there yesterday for duty as check weighman. He could not be discharged because he is not employed by the Southern Coal, Coke and Mining Co., which operates the mine, but is appointed by the miners to weigh for them and is paid by them. Fourteen Belleville mines are working today, but not all with full forces of men. The New Baden, Shiloh and Muren mines of the Southern company are idle.

SAYS SPANISH WAR VETERANS MADE PRESENT ARMY POSSIBLE

William Jones of New York, Commander in Chief of the United Spanish-American War Veterans, in an address last night at a meeting of the Department of Missouri at Battery A, 1225 South Grand avenue, told 500 of his former comrades in arms that by their sacrifice they made possible the building of the greatest army organization in the United States that the world has ever seen.

Jones said that the public was inclined to look upon the Spanish-American War as a sort of a skirmish, and that the hardships of the soldiers in the campaigns in Cuba were scarcely recognized. He declared that records showed that the average loss in weight per man in the Spanish-American War was 28 pounds, while in the war with Germany an average gain of 12 pounds was recorded. He urged that the organization of which he is commander be kept intact, and favored the formation of a federation of all veterans' associations.

The commander is on his way to San Francisco to attend the national encampment of the Spanish-American War Veterans. About 20 delegates from the Department of Missouri, headed by Commander Marple, will depart for the encampment Aug. 28. They will try to bring the encampment to St. Louis in 1920.

SPECTATORS BARRED AT CONDUCTORS' TRIAL

Ruling Follows Attack on "Spotter" and Arrest of Two U. R. Employees.

Spectators will be excluded from future hearing of the cases of United Railways conductors by the arbitration board at the city hall, owing to an assault yesterday upon A. A. Orabka, 52 years old, 3003 Magnolia avenue, a car auditor or "spotter," shortly after he testified against Daniel R. Vance, a conductor on the Wellston line.

Vance's case, one of 21 in which conductors were discharged by the company for alleged misappropriation of fares, is now being tried by the board, and the report of the assault upon Orabka resulted in an abrupt adjournment at 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

Orabka said he boarded a west-bound Bellefontaine car at Eighth and Pine streets at 2:40 p. m., after leaving the hearing, and as he deposited his fare a man behind him remarked to the conductor, "He's one of those damned spotters."

Orabka said the conductor then seized his arms, while the other man struck him several blows on the face and eyes, knocking off his glasses. When the man had done punching him, Orabka said, the doors were flung open and he was knocked into the street.

Jacob Melshelmer, 42 years old, of 4201 Evans avenue, a conductor on the Page line, off duty and not in uniform, was arrested, charged with being the man who struck Orabka, and J. C. Poyner, 25 years old, 3533 Emerson avenue, conductor of the car, was arrested at 7 p. m. Both men were charged with disturbing the peace and were released on bond.

Frank W. O'Shea, international vice president of the carmen's union, who represents the accused conductors at the hearing, said the attack on Orabka was regrettable and not condoned by the union. He said an investigation would be made.

Two other auditors, Mrs. Georgia Simmons and G. E. Russell, testified with Orabka yesterday that they saw Vance at different times take fares which he failed to place in the fare box. Mrs. Simmons said Vance allowed a girl "with a sweet smile" to ride free. Russell also testified Vance allowed a girl to ride without paying the fare.

4 TRAIN ROBBERS ESCAPE AFTER RIFLING MAIL CAR OF $60,000

Masked Men Held Up Crew, Ransacked Coach and Disappeared in Darkness.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 22.—No trace has been found of the four masked robbers who early yesterday held up and robbed a Louisville & Nashville passenger train, 10 miles south of Columbia. Booty amounting to $60,000 cash was reported taken from the mail pouches.

After rifling the mails, they cut loose the engine and threw the throttle wide open and allowed the unmanned locomotive to rush at top speed down the mainline. After running wildly for more than 20 miles it stopped without doing damage, near Wales station, eight miles north of Pulaski.

W. P. Mulvihill, fireman, said two of the bandits boarded the train at Columbia, riding the "blind baggage." When the train passed through a wooded section they climbed over the tender and pointing their revolvers at the engineer and fireman, shouted "the train is held up."

Engineer Wray said he was ordered to proceed until a white light was shown. The light appeared just south of Glendale from a searchlight held by a third robber on the side of the track.

Two of the men held the engineer in his cab while the other ordered the fireman to go back and cut off the passenger coaches. S. H. Allen, conductor, was met coming to investigate and when the train was cut off the conductor and fireman were forced into a passenger coach.

The three robbers commanded the engineer to run the engine, with baggage, express and mail cars attached, to a point half a mile beyond. Here a fourth man appeared from the bushes. The four bandits hurriedly ransacked the mail bags, sent the engine speeding off and disappeared in the darkness, leaving the engineer standing on the track. None of the passengers was harmed.

He probably will be out in a week, physicians announced.

Suits aren't the only thing considered. The Paris Letter shows the new long coat, fur-trimmed; the wonderful diaphanous evening frocks of lace and net, some of them with tight satin foundations over which the skirt floats like an immense butterfly. The afternoon frock is here—impudently short-skirted, with subtle lines and unexpected draperies about the hips. There is a page of Poiret, too—several pages of the new hats—snapshots from the French press—two pages of the new materials—a sheaf of piquant sketches from the Hotel Murat.

PEARL HARBOR DRY DOCK DEDICATED BY DANIELS

Wife of Naval Secretary Presses Button, Flooding Great Hawaiian Structure.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Aug. 22.—With Mrs. Joseph Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, pressing the button that flooded the structure, the great Pearl Harbor dry dock was dedicated by Secretary Daniels yesterday.

Hundreds of army and navy officials and other spectators were present.

While the water was pouring into the dock Secretary Daniels addressed the gathering, emphasizing the future of Pacific commerce in relation to the nation's naval power.

When the speech ended the pumps started emptying the basin. During the ceremony seaplanes circled and the sailors and marines stood at attention.

The United States naval dry dock at the Pearl Harbor base is one of the largest in the world. It is 1001 feet long and has an inside width of 138 feet and inside depth of 32½ feet. It will accommodate any ship afloat and represents an investment of more than $5,000,000.

Pearl Harbor has an area of approximately 10 square miles. Its depth is approximately 60 feet. Entrance to the harbor has been made safe for all time by dredging and other work done by the United States.

The dry dock had been under construction since 1910. Its opening had been planned to take place long before today but various delays and the war caused postponement. The most serious delay occurred when the entire bottom of the dry dock upheaved suddenly, ruining all work that had been done and delaying construction for a year. First theories were an earthquake had caused the mishap. The engineers decided the dredged-out bottom left a floor softer than surrounding terrain and the pressure of the latter caused the center to upheave.

STRIKING STAGE HANDS AND MUSICIANS CLOSE "BETTER 'OLE"

Lone Pianist Furnishes Music for Winter Garden Revue in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A walk-out of stage hands and musicians from the Booth Theater made it impossible to give a performance of "The Better 'Ole" last night. Nineteen theaters and two roofs have now been closed by the strike called by the Actors' Equity Association, which was later joined by the stage hands. Only two theaters run by members of the Producing Managers' Association are now open. These are the Winter Garden and the Play House. At the former a lone pianist furnished the music last night for a vaudeville show, with chorus ensemble. Only one set of scenery was used. William A. Brady and a revised cast "carried on" at the Play House in "At 945."

About 50 prominent playwrights, in session at the Hotel Astor, perfected the organization of the Stage Writers' Protective Association and will apply to the Secretary of State for a charter.

Irvin S. Cobb came to town yesterday and in a speech at strike headquarters he said: "I haven't the slightest doubt that the entire writing craft is with you from hell to breakfast. When a man tells you his cause is so righteous that there is no need for arbitration then he realizes his cause is weak."

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—In addition to the stage hands and musicians, who walked out Thursday in sympathy with the Actors' Association, the Billposters' Union members and the Theatrical Baggage and Scenery Transfer men quit work today. Only one of the big downtown theaters remained open today.

House Passes Tungsten Ore Tariff.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—By a strict party vote the House yesterday passed and sent to the Senate a bill imposing a tariff of $10 a unit, or $600 a ton, on crude tungsten ore and $1 a pound on ferro-tungsten and other tungsten salts. Democrats, led by Representative Kitchen, North Carolina, sought to reduce the rates.

8 PERMANENT BABY CLINICS TO BE OPENED ABOUT SEPT. 15

Mothers Will Be Able to Get Medical Treatment and Advice for Children.

Eight permanent municipal baby clinics will be opened about Sept. 15. Director of Public Welfare John Schmoll announces. The clinics will be conducted by the Municipal Nurses' Board and mothers will be able to get medical treatment and advice for their babies from the persons in charge. No charges will be made, except for medicines administered.

The services will be furnished without any cost to the city, as a fund of $5000 has been established by a committee headed by Mrs. Lon O. Hocker to pay for equipment and other expenses. After Jan. 1, however, the city will take over the operation expenses. The locations of the clinics have not been decided, although the majority will be established in the congested districts of the city.

KING HELD FOR TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Hearing of Former Occupant of "Skeleton Farm" Brings Only Circumstantial Evidence.

By the Associated Press.

ESKRIDGE, Kan., Aug. 22.—Declaring that the skeleton introduced at yesterday's preliminary hearing might be proved that of Reuben Guthall and that the evidence tended to show King was the last man seen with Guthall before the latter's disappearance, Justice A. J. Skeen late yesterday held Rufus King, charged with murder in connection with Guthall's disappearance, over to the Circuit Court for trial on a charge of murder. Bond was fixed at $20,000.

Without argument by the attorneys and the defense waiving the introduction of testimony, the case was submitted to Justice Skeen "wholly on the basis of circumstantial evidence submitted by the State. The line of defense which probably will be followed at the trial in October was indicated in cross examination of State witnesses by questions intended to show that the placing of three skeletons on property controlled at one time by the defendant might have been the work of another person.

Prisoner Is Hurried Away.
About 1000 persons crowded the small opera house where the hearing was held. Not until the crowd began filing out after adjournment did anything like a demonstration take place. As the crowd strained to catch a glimpse of the prisoner who was being hurried away, Mrs. Levi Guthall, mother of Reuben Guthall, pushed her way in front of King and halted the party. County Attorney John Martin immediately counseled the crowd to disperse and the prisoner was hurried away.

Throughout the day King, whose hearing was preceded by the filing of two additional murder charges, met the curious gaze of acquaintances with composure. One of the charges was an amended warrant, correcting an error in the charge previously filed, alleging the murder of an itinerant jewelry peddler. The second warrant served yesterday charged King with the murder of John Woody by four possible methods—shooting, stabbing and cutting, choking and strangling, or by some unknown method.

To Search for More Skeletons.
Skeletons believed to be those of the jewelry peddler and Woody have been unearthed on property near Maple Hill formerly resided upon by King.

Fearing that other skeletons may be buried at Maple Hill, county authorities, it was said, will begin a systematic search today about what formerly was the King livery stable, where two of the skeletons were unearthed.

King was taken to Topeka after the hearing, but will be brought back here Aug. 28 for his preliminary on the two charges filed yesterday.

Witnesses for the State at today's hearing included M. Guthall, a brother of the man alleged to have been murdered, who testified to incidents concerning his brother's disappearance in December, 1913, and identified the skeleton exhibited in court as that of his brother, which he declared was found in a sack with stored personal property in Maple Hill belonging to King.

PLAN TO ESTABLISH HOG FARM NEAR EAST ST. LOUIS OPPOSED

President of Chamber of Commerce Says He Will File Complaint Against Proposal.

East St. Louisans who already enjoy the doubtful distinction of being near the packing plants, do not propose to have a hog farm and garbage dump added to their trials, and N. C. McLean, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said today that he will file complaints before the State, county and city health boards to prevent Guy Caron from establishing his hog farm near the city.

Caron has been ordered to remove his hog farm from the outskirts of Mascoutah, Ill., where the citizens say that gas masks have almost become a necessary part of every household. He gets the garbage from St. Louis.

It was reported recently that Caron proposed removing his establishment to the Greiswald tract, between Washington Park and Caseyville, northeast of East St. Louis. McLean proposes to forestall this move.

Machinists Demand $1 an Hour.

By the Associated Press.
AKRON, O., Aug. 22.—Union machinists on strike went on strike this morning, asking a 44-hour week and wage increases to $1 an hour. Other demands include a scale of 64 cents an hour for helpers and abolition of bonus and premium systems. Union leaders say 3000 men will be affected, and that machine work in 24 factories practically will cease. The International Harvester Co. is not affected.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

What Is Genius?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Two women were one day giving their views on a certain subject. They were overheard by someone on the street. Their conversation caused me to pursue the trend of their thinking with the result: I resolved to write my opinion of the subject, hoping it would give "honor to whom honor is due" and thus overcome the impression people sometimes have of achievement being something aside from perseverance, self-sacrifice and good, hard work.

The two women I speak of were talking about Helen Keller, who had recently given a message to the returning soldiers, especially to those who were wounded and blinded in the war. She counseled them to not despair, for there is work for all and ways and means by which it can be done. It was a message vibrating with the tenderest compassion. Every word came from a heart of deepest understanding and love. It was from one who had "sat in darkness and seen a great light." And more than this, she has herself followed the light and accomplished things, in spite of the fact that her physical deprivations are greater than any of those for whom her message is written. But not so, according to these two women's comments. "Oh, it was easy for Helen Keller to do what she has done," one of them said. "She's just a genius."

Had they but stopped to read Miss Keller's own story of her life, never again could either one of them make such a statement. And would they but read the lives of others who have achieved in spite of difficulties, it would be impossible for them to harbor such feelings about any great man or woman. A genius? What is a genius? According to the definition of these two women, someone wonderful, supernatural, able to achieve without effort—who simply has to say: "Presto! Change!" and whatever they desire is accomplished in the twinkling of an eye. Ask someone who is considered a genius, and abide by his answer.

Edison is quoted as answering this question thus: "Genius is 1 per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration." Helen Keller would no doubt answer in more poetic language, but it would mean the same.

L. CHANNING.

The Unwelcome Children.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I am the proud father of six boys and one girl and where I reside I have been for the last 15 years. The house is old now and we have been hunting for a new place to make our home. My wife has been to some 15 different places in search for a house to live in, and when she asks the neighbors what the place rents for they tell her it rents for $18. When she goes to the agent who has charge of the property he tells her it rents for $35 because we have children; others refuse to rent to us at all owing to the fact that we are the parents of a rather large family.

Now the thing I want to know is this, what would become of America if we didn't have people that would raise families and populate the country? How would we raise armies to make them a decent place to live in? I think the people who are burdened with large families should not pay as much rent as those with no families at all. What benefit is a man that has no family in other words that is raising no family to the stars and stripes of his country as he is leaving no one behind him to protect it?

A FAMILY MAN.

Government Sales.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The blanket sale at the Government Arsenal was a disgrace to Americans, the crowds that gathered there should have been handled properly, and not allowed to stand in the hot sun four or five hours in order to purchase Government goods. And I also think that these blankets should have been sold about 3 or 4 to a customer, so that poor people might get some of the necessary things of life.

Also I believe that if there is Government foodstuff to be sold and the mail carriers must be the agents and do all this extra work, why should they be asked to do it without extra pay, as I understand they are? Isn't this profiteering in wages. They are paid as mail carriers as the wages are, and not as grocery salesmen, and they are not a carrier but a mechanic although I sympathize with underpaid men.

CHAS. DENNIS.

High Fares Hard on the People.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Why should Mr. Holla Wells or anyone else expect the poorer class of people to pay for a raise in wages for the street car men? The street car conductors and motormen are making more now than a majority of the people who are compelled to ride on the street cars to and from work. Those who have money ride in the street cars and from work in automobiles. If the street car men must have more money, don't ask those to give it to them who are now making less than they are.

ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

SUFFICIENT FARES.

City Engineer C. E. Smith, after a study of United Railways accounts, declares that no further increase in street car fares is needed to enable the company to pay the increased wages awarded its men.

Those who remember his attitude while the company was attempting the franchise grab defeated by the referendum cannot charge that Mr. Smith's judgment has been influenced by any hostility to the company's interests. During a space of several months he had exceptional opportunities for familiarizing himself with the assets, the system of accounting and the viewpoints of the United Railways.

During the year from June 1, 1918, to June 1, 1919, the company reported a balance over operating expenses of $2,244,611. Mr. Smith asserts that by juggling bookkeeping expenses other than operating expenses were improperly charged against this balance, so that an actual surplus for the year of $1,200,000 was converted into a bookkeeping deficit of $380,030.

Among the items improperly charged, according to Mr. Smith, was a sum for depreciation that is excessive by $70,000. If the company found 10 per cent of the total sum realized annually from 5-cent fares a sufficient charge for depreciation, why should not 10 per cent of that sum be sufficient under 6-cent fares? Is depreciation more under 6-cent than under 5-cent fares?

But of the total sum received from 6-cent fares—20 per cent more than it formerly received from 5-cent fares—the company charged off the full 10 per cent for depreciation, when on the former basis, 6 per cent would be ample.

A deficit of $295,675 in the operation of the county lines was charged against the city lines, as was also back pay for a period prior to June 1, 1918. Eliminating all illegitimate debit items leaves a net profit of a million and a quarter and Mr. Smith believes that with economy and efficiency replacing the company's former extravagance and waste, a total on the credit side of the ledger can be shown which will come very near to meeting the increased expenditure for wages.

A vigorous and emphatic showing on these points should be made to the Public Service Commission. It is time to call a halt in the continuous and remorseless increases in fares which are prescribed as a quack remedy for all traction ills. Operation for six months on the present 6-cent fares would furnish the best test of Mr. Smith's contention. It would also avail to introduce, as an absolute necessity, the drastic economy which he recommends and which everyone knows ought to be introduced.

One reason for high prices is that some who made exorbitant profits in the war period want to continue to live in the luxury to which they were accustomed while others were fighting.

IS THE RETAILER A PROFITEER?

Is the retailer profiteering? He says he isn't. And the Attorney-General of Missouri corroborates that statement. But the Attorney-General of the United States declares the corner grocer is an unconscionable gouger, that the Department of Justice has received more complaints against the retailer than any other class, and he requests full authority be given him in the corrective bill now under consideration by the House Committee on Agriculture to prosecute the man behind the counter.

An incident tending to cloud the retailer's profession of innocence occurred in connection with the sale of army supplies in St. Louis by the Tenth Ward Improvement Association. The same brand of canned tomatoes sold by the association commanded almost twice the price at a store on the opposite side of the street. No positive conclusion can be drawn from such data, but a fair alternative inference seems to bring the private store under suspicion or to indict our system of distribution, barnacled with middlemen, which piles profit upon profit, until a fantastic price accumulates when the merchandise reaches the consumer.

Moreover, in the case of the Public vs. The Retailer the defendant does not have to depend upon his plea of not guilty. He can prove the injustice of the price-fixing charge by the simple process of putting a cost-price tag as well as a selling-price tag on his goods. That plan is sufficiently practicable to win the verdict if his cause is good. It is a plan, too, which the retailer might well adopt voluntarily, because it probably will soon be required by law.

BANDIT-CHASING A WEARYING SPOOT.

As a West Point man, class of '81, Gen. J. T. Dickman holds that a promise, even to a bandit, must be kept. Capt. Leonard Matlack, who came up from the ranks, holds to the more appealing, if opportunist, school of ethics which would fulfill only so much of a promise obtained under duress by outlaws as one was obliged to fulfill. Of the $15,000 pledged for the liberation of Aviators Peterson and Davis, the Captain trimmed the Renteria bandits out of $6500, but the General ruled that the full sum must be paid over.

Among some in this country, accordingly, there may be a certain amount of doubt as to whether the troops of the Eighth Cavalry have been sent across the line to penalize the kidnappers or to pay them the remainder of the $15,000. Happily, the immediate object, whether the one thing or the other, cannot be accomplished unless the bandits are caught, and in Mexico itself no doubt at all can be felt as to the meaning of the expedition.

If a stern lesson can be administered to Renteria and all other bandits, so much the better. But the personage on whom a stimulating and wholesome influence is expected to be exerted is Carranza.

If he can visualize other expeditions of the sort setting forth into his territories whenever American lives are jeopardized by disorder and some day an imposing expedition that will not come back until Mexican conditions are placed on a sound and permanent footing, the consequences will be extraordinarily useful and beneficial. There are times when the uproar in a neighbor's house becomes so intolerable to our own premises that statement must be sought, even at the cost of neighborhood peace for a while. In the fall of 1897 we notified Spain that we could not view with indifference an indefinite prolongation of existing conditions in Cuba. The events beginning with May Day, 1898, succeeded when Spain effected no change in those conditions.

Undoubtedly Carranza will be permitted a reasonable further time. But if he does not amend tendencies rapidly becoming inauspicious in Mexico, more vigorous measures on our part are as sure as that the steps reluctantly taken in May, 1898, followed the representations by Minister Woodford at Madrid five months before. Bandit chasing in Mexico is becoming a monotonous outdoor sport.

We'll soon have that long-wished-for treaty treat.

WELCOME HOME!

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

THE TEST OF A TREATY.

From the New York World.
WHEN a treaty is submitted to the United States Senate for its "advice and consent," there are two questions to be considered:
1. Are the aims and objects of the treaty worthy and in the public interest?
2. Is it the best treaty that can be negotiated in the circumstances?
Nobody will deny that the aims and objects of the treaty of peace are worthy, or that a treaty of peace is vitally necessary in the public interest. The only question that remains for the Senate to consider is whether a better treaty can be negotiated. If so, when, where and how can it be done?

None of the senatorial critics of the treaty have ventured to deal with that phase of the issue. Some of them have vaguely assumed many of its provisions. Some of them, like Senator Moises, have glibly talked about throwing it out of the window. Others, like Senator Lodge, have declared that it must go back to the peace conference, as if the peace conference were a committee of Congress to which the Senate had power to refer anything it pleased. None of them has ventured to explain how a better treaty of peace can be obtained. None of them has tried to explain, because the absurdity of their position would then become apparent to everybody.

The average senatorial opponent of the treaty of peace talks as if it were an issue between himself and President Wilson. He betrays no understanding of the fact that the President in this controversy merely represents the peace conference and that the issue which has been raised is between a group of partisan Senators and the delegates from 27 different nations, including Germany, who have signed this treaty and can sign no other treaty without the consent of their respective Governments.

When these Senators criticize the treaty they are in reality telling the country what kind of a treaty they would have negotiated if they had been the whole peace conference and had been omnipotent. This revelation of their ambitions may be interesting, but it has nothing to do with the case, because they were not the peace conference, they are not omnipotent and the only question that confronts them is whether the Senate is to accept or reject the only treaty that the nations have been able to agree upon.

There are signs in Washington that partisan fury is exhausting itself and that more than half of the Republican Senators are now prepared to deal with the treaty rationally. Perhaps the air will be still further cleared after the conference Tuesday between the President and the Committee on Foreign Relations. It is not conceivable that a group of Senators under the bizarre leadership of Henry Cabot Lodge can continue indefinitely to obstruct the peace of the world under the delusion the universe must bow down to their fiat.

HOW COME?

Dear Mr. Davis.—When asking a friend why the Post-Dispatch was appearing daily without Fitzpatrick's cartoons his answer was: "Why? A cartoonist receiving a vacation. Do they really? I think Mr. Fitzpatrick's cartoons are wonderful, also his nerve in taking a vacation. How does he do it?"

We are not our brother's keeper but to show that our heart is in the right place we'll ask him about it:

Fitzpatrick, Fitzpatrick, there's great tribulation
How dare you cease labor and take a vacation?
While they are all right for a clerk or balloonist
Vacations are not for a famous cartoonist.

The public is keen for your great illustrations
So, prithee, lay off on these bloom-in' vacations.

The doers of wrong who come under your strictures
Recall that the lash and the sting of your pictures
And while you're indulging in pastimes bucolic
The profiteer mice all indulge in a frolic.

When you are away your amusements pursuing
They have a flag-raising and much barbecuing.

For when your cartoons don't appear in the papers
They chuckle with glee and proceed with their capers.

So prithee, Fitzpatrick, come back to your knitting
And straighten from the shoulder continue your hitting.

Vocational Training for Cripples.

Provision for re-educating wounded soldiers in some vocation for which they are fitted, in order that they may earn their own living and not be dependent the remainder of their lives, has opened up a wide field of possibility for the vocational training of the victims of industrial accidents in the country.

Year after year our industries have gone on killing and injuring workmen, and while various kinds of insurance have been provided, it was not until the war brought out strongly the feasibility of retraining men for some useful occupation, that it was realized that a great economic and social loss could be saved through establishing vocational training schools for the industrially maimed.

The American Federation of Labor indorses the Smith-Bankhead bill passed in the Senate of the United States a short time ago providing for vocational rehabilitation of crippled industrial workers, and many civic and social service organizations as well as educators, employers and public spirited citizens are also urging the enactment of such legislation. The bill is now pending in the House.

With more than one hundred thousand industrial cripples in this country today, and with the number being added to at the rate of about 11,000 per year, it would seem desirable not only to stimulate interest in safety first rules, but to provide effective means to enable the victims of these accidents to continue to perform some service for themselves and society.

"Salvation through work" is a good slogan for those who find dependency very distasteful. In thousands of cases where "the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak," the maimed can be put upon the road to self-sustenance through a little help from a vocational school.

Our soldiers, who were wounded, will be provided for in this respect, and in the interests of individuals, and society as a whole, the same opportunities should be extended to civilian cripples.—Houston Post.

When the street car fare is advanced to 8 cents or more we look for a general revival of the ancient and honorable outdoor sport of walking. However, the chances are they'll get us in the long run.

"CAPT."

Once upon a time I knew a man
Who had birth and good breeding
And a college education,
Was a writer and a poet,
A lover of beauty,
Friend of children,
And chivalrous.
He earned a pittance
From a whiskey-soaked pirate
Who employed his brains.
There must have been
A slipped cog.
For he, too, drank.
But suffered great pain
And died alone
In the city hospital.
While the fat blond pirate
Promoted an oil company
And grew rich.
In a forgotten grave
In the paupers' field,
Poor "Capt." lies,
Gone, but remembered
By one only.

PATIENCE WORTH.

Desolation of France a Shock to Senses After Gayety of Paris Streets

Cathedral and Cottage, Palace and Cabin Have Been Battered Into Shapeless Masses, Says Dunne.

This is the tenth and concluding article by Edward F. Dunne, former Governor of Illinois, giving details of the Irish-American Commission's visit to Ireland and Paris.

By EDWARD F. DUNNE.

After passing three months in Paris, I have no hesitation in saying, based upon what I saw and what I could gather from those who have visited all of the great cities of the world, it is the most beautiful and the most interesting city on earth.

Its predominant characteristics are its wealth of art and its architectural beauty. There are more gems of art along its boulevards and in its parks and public "places," exposed to the winds and waves of time, than are housed in the museums of the great American cities. In the cemetery of Pere le Chaise there are more classical works of real art than in all the cemeteries I have ever seen; and I have been in many.

The museums and public buildings of Paris are veritable mines of both ancient and modern painting and sculpture. It is not to be wondered at that this city has become pre-eminent in the world school of art, and that students from all over the globe flock to it for inspiration and culture. So universal is the love of art in Paris that fronts of many of the business houses are decorated and adorned with gems of sculpture.

Supreme in Architecture. In architecture it is supreme. No other city that I have seen possesses so many and such imposing and symmetrical public buildings, cathedrals, churches, opera houses and public monuments. Not only are the buildings and monuments themselves works of art and types of exalted architecture, but their locations and surroundings are full of dignity and beauty. No expense is spared in Paris in getting sufficient ground around its architectural masterpieces to secure a just perspective.

The erection of a massive courthouse and city hall upon a city block surrounded by 65-foot streets and skyscrapers such as we have in Chicago, would not be tolerated in Paris. Not only must the public surroundings of a public monument building in Paris comport with and give dignity to the monuments or public building, but even on the private buildings must to their exteriors, harmonize with the central architectural masterpiece.

All around the "places" and public squares of Paris, the private buildings must not only be erected at a sufficient distance to give perspective, but these private buildings can only be erected five stories in height. No millionaires or syndicates, however powerful, can in Paris—as they can in an American city—buy a lot or lots in the city and erect thereon an architectural monstrosity 20, 30 or 40 stories high and coin money out of a location at the expense of the city's beauty. Art and architectural harmony must not be outraged by avarice.

In smaller things, however, which do not offend the artistic temperament, Paris is not so particular. I have seen over and over again, on the boulevard, Italian, push carts loaded with strawberries, cherries and other fruit blocking the cross walks in the busiest hours of the day, without police interference.

There are evidently no traffic rules which the taxicab is bound to obey. There are comparatively few surface tramways in Paris, and the taxicab is the only cheap thing in Paris. As the rates are cheap and there are no traffic rules, everybody in the heart of the city takes a taxi when wishing to go anywhere. The occupant of the taxi can get to any place quickly and safely, while the pedestrian cannot cross a street without imminent danger to life and limb.

I was informed seriously by several persons that the former inhabitants of Reims have returned to the city and are living in lean-tos, huts, dugouts, cellars and other improvised temporary shelters. The city of Reims, the beautiful city of champagne, is badly damaged and three-quarters of Soissons is in hopeless ruins.

Of all the great cities of France, which I visited which were within the war zone, Reims is the one upon which the ruthless engines of modern warfare has wrecked the most complete havoc. The city, which was populated by 125,000 human beings before the war, but not within it last May a public or private building with an unpunctured roof or an ununmanned wall.

German destroyed scientifically. Six 30,000 of the former inhabitants of Reims have returned to the city and are living in lean-tos, huts, dugouts, cellars and other improvised temporary shelters. The city of Reims, the beautiful city of champagne, is badly damaged and three-quarters of Soissons is in hopeless ruins.

Between Laon and Soissons on the Chemin des Dames is the widespread battlefield which is the "abomination of desolation." Every few rods a cross and sometimes a stake upon which is hung a soldier's helmet, marks the last resting place of some French or German soldier, and alongside the highway are heaped up enough unused shells and battered canteens, bottles and other numerous implements of warfare to ransom, even at junk prices, a Rockefeller or a Rothschild.

Every few miles we came upon some pile of smoke-begrimed mud of stone and mortar almost pulverized into dust, which marked the site of a happy and prosperous village a few years ago.

Where are the men that dwell there? The long list of names printed upon ribbon you see in every church under the French tricolor and the words "Mort pour la Patrie" and watch the crippled wrecks of men that pass you by with heads proudly erect, on the roads and streets of the cities.

Where are the women and children of them now living, now wearing the somber black that we met so often in Paris.

The transition from the glorious city of Paris, bedecked with her triumphal trophies and the flags of her allies, to the demolished and desolated cities of France, is a shock to human sensibility that can not be easily forgotten. Yet, in the midst of her sorrows, France glories in the valor of her sons and the patient endurance of her daughters. Her Calvary has succeeded by a glorious resurrection.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The cotton market opened from today at an advance of 1-8¢ over yesterday's closing. PROVERBS.

You'll gain success at home alone.
Who seeks strange seas to cross,
Discovers that a rolling stone
Don't gather any moss.
And that is odd, because, forsooth
The wise bird soonest flies,
And furthermore, home keeping youth
Have ever homely wits.

Don't fail to look before you leap.
Remember, haste makes waste.
Be sure, when cliffs are high and steep
Your ladder's safely placed,
And that is strange, because thin ice
With swiftness must be crossed.
It is not wise to try things twice,
Who hesitates is lost.

By taking chances is attained
Both fame and goodly pelf.
For nothing ventured, nothing gained
Is true as truth itself.
And that is queer, for learned rhymes
Have long informed us all
That anyone who never climbs
Can surely never fall.

For you will always find
